

For Immediate Release: January 7, 2021

Housing Policy Council President Ed DeMarco Denounces Senseless and Seditious Acts at the Capitol

Washington, D.C. – Edward J. DeMarco, President of the Housing Policy Council (HPC) released the following statement condemning yesterday’s violence at the U.S. Capitol:

The Housing Policy Council denounces the senseless and seditious rioting that took place yesterday at the Capitol Building. These acts tear at the fabric of our nation. We look forward to a 2021 that brings the nation into a period of healing, reconciliation, and recovery. The Council welcomes the incoming Biden Administration and the new Congress. We pledge to be a constructive participant in ensuring the housing finance system plays its part in this restorative effort. In particular, we will be focused on securing greater and equitable homeownership opportunities and assisting families struggling under the weight of economic loss caused by the pandemic.

###

About HPC

The Housing Policy Council is a trade association comprised of the leading national mortgage lenders and servicers, mortgage and title insurers, and technology and data companies. HPC advocates for the mortgage and housing marketplace interests of its members in legislative, regulatory, and judicial forums. The association’s interest is in the safety and soundness of the housing finance system, the equitable and consistent regulatory treatment of all market participants, and the promotion of lending practices that create sustainable homeownership opportunities in support of vibrant communities and long-term wealth-building for families.

Contact: Media.Inquiries@housingpolycouncil.org